AUGUSTA, Ga. (A) - President Eisenhower today picked Dr. Lawrence Gridley Derthick, now superintendent of schools at Chattanooga, Tenn., to be U. S. Commissioner of Education.

At the same time, the President appointed Jack Z. Anderson former member of Congress and now an assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson, to serve as a White House liaison man with Congress. He will specialize in tending to farm legislation, as he has in the agriculture department.

In the education post, Derthick, who will be 51 Dec. 23, succeeds Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, brother of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell. The job has been vacant since Sept. 1, when Samuel Brownell resigned to become superintendent of schools at Detroit. It pays $14.800 a year.

The President's choice of Derthick, announced at his vacation headquarters, is a recess appointment subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in

The selection of Anderson as a White House liaison man with Congress is an outright Presidential appointment which does not require Senate confirmation.

Derthick, a native of Hazel Green, Ky., is a former principal of the City-County School at superintendent of schools at Nashville, Tenn., from 1939 to 1752.

He has been school superintendent at Chattanooga since 1942. Anderson is a former Republican member of Congress from California. He served in the House WASHINGTON (A) - The Air from 1939 through 1952. He will

Ohio Utility Seizure Vote Set Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (A)-Lengthy committee hearings on Gov. Frank J. Lausche's utility seizure proposal were expected to end soon enough today for a showdown vote in the Ohio House's 1 p.m.

A strike by the Communications Workers of America against the company began last July 15 in 24 southeastern Ohio counties.

William Sibert, representative of a Virginia agency like Ohio's public utilities commission, testified Tuesday before a House Judiciary Committee hearing. He said the proposed Ohio law should operate as well as a similar Virginia statute used in strikes against utilities there.

Ohio CIO and AFL officials challenged constitutionality of the proposed Ohio law. They said collective bargaining was the only solution to the strike, deadlocked over union shop and other issues.

John R. Rooney, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO Council, said: "If the governor jumps into a strike, collective bargaining will be undermined."

Ohio Consolidated officials expressed opposition to the proposal. Clare E. Williams, company president, and Sidney Griffith, company attorney, testified at the

The 'YW' Proposal

If initiative means anything Salem may have a YWCA in due time. Sponsors of the move to establish a local branch of the Young Women's Christian Association have been working diligently to lay the groundwork for one. Hopes of securing a YWCA here stem from a $40,000 bequest made by the late Edith Ritz. Public response to a membership drive Dec. 1 to 15 probably will spell the success or failure of the program but early indications are that the possibility of a "YW" in the city is meeting with favorable reaction.

Girls 12 years of age and up are eligible. Boys and men may be taken in as associate members since the city does not have a "YM."

If it were possible to construct a YWCA adjoining the Memorial Building it might be the means of expanding the community center for a more comprehensive year 'round recreational program which would benefit many local people. Maintenance costs and supervision undoubtedly will be the big question, however. Details of YWCA operations in other cities will be explained by leaders at a public meeting Thursday night at 7:30 at the Memorial Building.

Baseball Vs. 'Beizbol'

"At its best it is a contest between two nineman teams composed of superlatively skillful athletes, gifted with grace, speed, dexterity and power."

It is highly doubtful any American baseball fan ever thought of his favorite game in quite such lyric terms, but that is the picture Russians are currently getting of the National

"Amerika," the slick magazine published by the U.S. Information Agency for sale to the Russian public, is replying to a 1952 Soviet youth magazine article that denounced "beizbol" as a brutal contest in which men tried to beat each other to death.

But the trouble comes in writing for translation to Russian. If the authors had deserted more or less classic English for the more appropriate jargon of the bleachers, most Russian readers would be completely bewildered.

Thus, the article reports that the game is "marked by the sharp crack of a wooden bat against a horsehide-covered ball, the plunk of the ball as it lands in a leather glove, the scurry and dash of uniformed players spread out on a playing field called the 'diamond,' and over-all, the shrill cries of the excited spectators."

Needless to say, the story did not quote such common shrill cries as "Moider de bum!"

Kiss The Cuts Goodbye

There will be no tax cuts of importance in the year ahead. Trouble in the Middle East will prompt larger federal appropriations for both defense and economic assistance.

This is a central fact not only for the House Ways and Means subcommittee that begins to hold hearings this week on federal excise taxes but for all members of Congress and their constituents. Under the law of international cause and effect, every new disturbance abroad is followed by a new effect on U.S. taxation.

· The question for congressional tax experts is whether or not any tax cut other than one designed to relieve a gross inequity or a direct hardship can be justified when national income is expanding. A boom is the time to collect maximum taxes to be applied against the debt which began to accumulate a quarter of a century ago in an economic collapse and was piled sky-high by World War II spending and the Keynesian theory that going into debt is sound

Debt reduction is the first aim of the Eisenhower administration, provided new spending needs do not destroy hope of a surplus from 1956 income and the continuation of all excise taxes at current levels. No tax cuts were promised in the national campaign, except by Democrats. None will be justified, except by those who see no logic in patching the roof for a rainy day.

Any Law Against It?

United Steelworkers, with an election coming up in February, would do well to quit describing opposition to David J. McDonald, the union president, as "rebels."

Men and women who work in steel are well schooled in the idea that freedom is based on the right to criticize. Steel towns are not aware that there is anything peculiar about the way steelworkers think; they are typical Americans.

Mr. McDonald is strong enough in his own right in United Steelworkers to take care of opposition in the union's forthcoming electioneven of opposition making an issue of the increased dues voted by the U.S.W. convention last September. The only thing that might weaken him seriously is to take the attitude there is some kind of a law against criticism / that applies to members of the steel union.

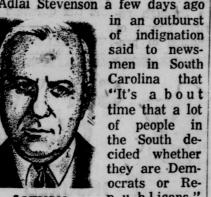

There isn't any such law. A steel worker who asks questions is not a rebel. He is an American citizen practicing one of his inalienable rights.

America To The Refugees

Welcome to America, refugees! Be of good cheer, old and weary woman in whose eyes is still the reflection of bloody streets and broken bodies. Try to efface, young mother, the memory of tanks spitting death down a once-lovely street.

Breathe in the air of America, father, grandfather and youngster in whose faces is etched the great horror. Smile and croon on, babe from the holocaust, for yours is the great blessing of not knowing and not fully understanding man's inhumanity to man.

Chortle away, child in your innocence. You do not sense that in this nearness to the Christmas season you are the symbol, after 2,000 years, of another Infant, born in a day of terror.

THERE IS THE DEEPEST warmth of concern for you all, old and young, weak and strong. Through you the people of America see the oppressed, the wronged and the prosecuted to whom their hearts have gone out through Try to be of good cheer. For there are no no rumbling of tanks outside a garden gate . . . no hoarse commands . . . no groans of anguish. America looks at you and sees the desecration of all that it holds dear . . . life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness!

boxcars loaded with deportees in this land . . .

THIS AMERICAN CAMP saw thousands of boys preparing for wars for human rights. Some marched to death to end the injustices of which you are victims. They move in spirit among you whispering, "Don't worry . . . You're among friends now."

"There will be no sound of a hobnailed boot in a corridor by night." "No sudden knock on the door presaging doom."

The fields here are clean and fresh and blessed with freedom. Those tall smokestacks yonder mark a great factory owned, perhaps, or managed by a Hungarian who came here as an immigrant.

The sleek auto flashing by may be carrying some executive, artist, doctor, scientist, famous actor or wealthy tycoon who landed on these shores not many years ago penniless. -:-LISTEN, REFUGEES and there will come to vour ears American words woven into the great message of hope. . . "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary to assume the equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them.' "We hold these truths to be self evident:

that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights" . . . "that to secure these rights governments are instituted . . . deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

THIS IS THE MESSAGE that brought to fulfillment the American dream . . . It is your dream, too, and will one day come true ... The Hungary of better days must come again. Croon on, babe, in swaddling clothes in the lap of a young mother whose features are heavy beyond her years. To you this is no refugee camp, no time of heartbreak. This is another morning's bright awakening, an hour of wonderment. In our eyes are hope. confidence, and the symbol of a happy world.

There is room for you at the inn . . . You behold the shepherds . . . Through your eyes may all refugees hear, "Fear not," catch the vision of a new bright star in the heavens and know the light shall shine again.

How much does this "tax curtain" cost you?

A strange kind of tax favoritism separates a few million families and businesses from most Americans when it comes to paying taxes on electricity.

The people in this "privileged class" pay little or no taxes in their electric bills, while everybody else does (about 23 cents of each dollar spent for electricity). Because the few don't pay their fair share of taxes, you and other taxpayers are taxed millions more every year to make up the difference.

There's nothing different or special about the people behind this "tax curtain." They just happen to get electricity from government power plants, and government in the electric business pays little or no taxes.

This kind of tax favoritism is unfair--and unusual in America. That's why we believe it should be made widely known and given critical study.

WHENEVER Mr. and Mrs. Rau Nadeau want a babysitter, they just put a pan of water on the floor for him and whistle. Their babysitter-and a most unusual one-is their bulldog, Sherlock. Anytime they want to leave their Los Angeles home, they put Sherlock in charge and he watches over their 11-monthold daughter, Diane. Sherlock plays games with her, drags her out of any potential danger and, when her parents are home, he even climbs into the bathtub with her Unlike other babysitters, Sherlock has to be paid only a bone or two.

This is the view of Sherlock that anyone would get if he got too close to Diane.

They're playing tag and Sherlock seems to be it. Hide-and-seek is another game.

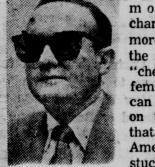

Is there any doubt that Sherlock takes his babysitting role with Diane seriously?
